BERJON, Antoine

Lyon 17.V.1754–24.X.1843

The leader of the Lyon group of flower painters worked in a wide range of media including, occasionally, pastel. He became professeur at the École spécial de dessin et des beaux-arts de Lyon. An early pastel self-portrait was given to his fellow teacher there, Fayolle, appointed by Napoléon in 1809 “pour enseigner d’art de traduire les esquisses et de les convertir en patrons”. Berjon’s later autoportrait shows distinctive and vigorous handling, while some of his flower pictures are outstanding. His use of pastel may have been inspired by his friend Hoin (q.v.) whose portrait he drew (Heino, Hannemede Stuers Fundatie). Berjon worked in Paris between 1791 and 1810 (exhibiting in the salon of 1804 from place des Victoires, no. 17), before returning to his native Lyon. He signed the petition to have Vigée Le Brun’s name removed from the list of émigrés (1799). He was still listed in the Almanach du commerce de Paris in 1811 (place des Victoires, 3). An undated portrait of Berjon by François Dumont l’ainé, in black and red chalk (c.1796), was sold by Artcurial (10.IV.2013, Lot 61).
