GARDELLE, Jacques-André

Geneva 1725–p.1741

Miniaturist; according to Schidlof he also produced pastels. He was the son of the painter Robert Gardelle (1682–1766), nephew of Liotard's teacher Daniel Gardelle (1679–1753) and cousin of the miniaturist Théodore (in whose trial for murder in London Perronneau was a witness; a lengthy account appears in the Annual register, x, 1761, pp. 54–62). Robert and Daniel were the sons of Robert Gardelle, whose first wife Jeanne (–1678) was the daughter of the enamelist Joseph Petitot.
