LACOUR, Pierre

Bordeaux 14.IV.1745–28.I.1814

History painter and portraitist. Pupil of Vien at the Académie royale from 1768; deuxième grand prix de Rome; travelled to Italy before 1774, when he returned to Bordeaux. His brother Antoine (c.1745–1814) was a miniaturist and pupil of Lépicié at the Académie, while his son Pierre (1778–1859), a pupil of Vincent from 1797, was an engraver and conservateur du musée de Bordeaux.

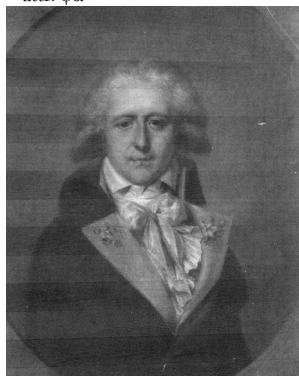

A pastel copied after an anonymous oil of the intendant Tourny was engraved by his son; the attribution seems improbable. Two pastels tentatively attributed to him by Roudié, unable to propose a convincing alternative, are the only other suggested works in this medium. The attribution seems possible at best; Roudié was right to reject Lonsing, and Wertmüller left Bordeaux in 1790.
