VANNI, Francesco

Siena 1563–1610

Religious and history painter; draughtsman and engraver, active in Siena, Bologna, Rome and Parma. He was influenced by Barocci. Major collections of his drawings are in the Uffizi and the Louvre. Sir John Pope-Hennessy assembled an important group sold in 1998. They include a range of chalks, including in some cases touches of yellow chalk which may perhaps be fabricated pastel (the contemporary descriptions as pastel should be treated with caution). He is referred to as le Vannius in eighteenth century French sources.
